

Transcript – Action Plan

Now that you have explored the curriculum and instructional changes for a particular course, what might be the next steps for you, your campus, or your district?

- What do you need to do as a teacher?
- What support does your district or campus have in place?
- What questions do you still have?
- With whom might you need to collaborate?
- What vertical conversations need to happen?
- What are the big ideas in a particular grade level that still need to be addressed now so that all of your students and teachers are ready for implementation?
- What are some small ideas that can be easily embedded in the curriculum?
- What big ideas do you have, and what planning might they require?

With these questions in mind, take a moment to fill out your Action Plan journal page.

Now that you've completed your action plan, it's time to take action!

Please consider sharing your action plan with fellow educators, campus leaders, and district personnel. Sharing your action plan is a great way to open discussions regarding the implementation of the revised TEKS.
