

Participant Notes

©2010 University of Texas System/Texas Education Agency

These materials are copyrighted © by and are the property of the University of Texas System and the Texas Education Agency and may not be reproduced or distributed without their written permission, except by Texas public school educators under the following conditions:

- any portion reproduced or distributed will be used exclusively for nonprofit educational purposes in Texas;
- 2 no monetary charge is made for the reproduced materials, any document containing them, or any activity at which they are distributed; however, a reasonable charge to cover only the cost of reproduction and distribution may be charged;
- 3 no modifications or changes can be made to the materials by anyone without the express written permission of the University of Texas System and the Texas Education Agency.

To obtain a license to reprint large quantities, contact licensing@texasreading.org.

Objectives

- Understand the components of mature reading and potential sources of reading difficulties.
- Identify instructional practices that foster student engagement through active involvement.
- Understand the need to adapt content area instruction for students with reading difficulties.
- Apply a framework for scaffolding instruction.

TALA

Version 2.0 ©2010 University of Texas System/Texas Education Agency

-

Reading Difficulties at the Secondary Level: Potential Problems

- Comprehension
- Vocabulary
- Background knowledge
- Strategic processing of text (predicting, questioning, self-monitoring, etc.)
- Text structures
- Reading fluency
- Word identification: Multisyllable words
- Word identification: Basic decoding

TALA

Version 2.0 ©2010 University of Texas System/Texas Education Agency

Development of Reading

- Proficient reading continues to develop in the middle school and high school grades, even in students who are strong readers.
- Teachers cannot assume that students will automatically understand complex content and understand technical vocabulary.
- Students may be able to comprehend one kind of text (e.g., short stories) but not others (e.g., science or math text).

TALA

Version 2.0 ©2010 University of Texas System/Texas Education Agency

5

Adapting Instruction

Adapting instruction means intentionally changing something about instruction so that all students have a greater chance to master important lesson objectives.

TALA

Version 2.0 ©2010 University of Texas System/Texas Education Agency

Adapting Instruction: Why Do It?

- More students are able to master key content area concepts and skills.
- Students may become more motivated to participate and apply more effort, which can result in fewer behavior problems.
  - Success is a great motivator.
  - Repeated failure leads to problem behaviors and lack of motivation.
- Students with reading difficulties become better readers of content area text.

TALA

Version 2.0 ©2010 University of Texas System/Texas Education Agency

Adaptation Framework Skills and Lessons concepts used to teach that are the focus and of teaching and reinforce skills Instructional learning Instructional and concepts (Objectives) Content Activities Procedures Materials Delivery of Materials that are Instruction routines used used to teach and reinforce skills and concepts (University of Texas Center for Reading and Language Arts, 2003) TALA Version 2.0 ©2010 University of Texas System/Texas Education Agency

Fostering Engagement

- Clear objectives
- Real-world interactions
- An abundance of interesting texts
- Direct strategy instruction
- Support for student choice and self-determination
- Collaboration support

TALA

Version 2.0 ©2010 University of Texas System/Texas Education Agency

Benefits of Grouping

- Grouping or pairing provides more opportunities for all students to participate in instructional dialogues and to develop the language and content of the course.
- Grouping and pairing is particularly important for English language learners.

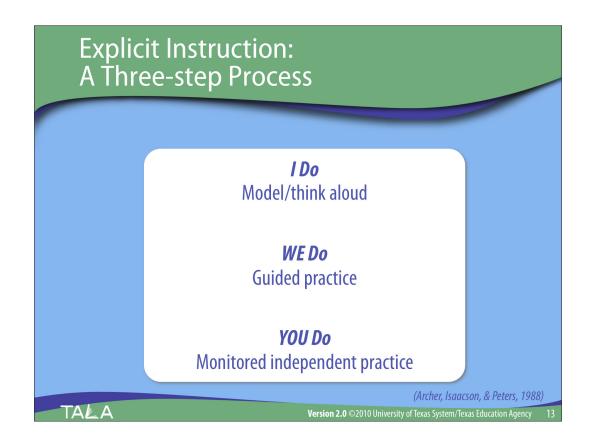

TALA

Version 2.0 ©2010 University of Texas System/Texas Education Agency

igency 10

How to Actively Involve Students: Partner Responses • Think-Pair-Share (Lyman, 1981) • Tell-Help-Check (Archer, 2006) • Generate-Share (Archer, 2006)

Provide multiple opportunities for practice. Extend the practice over time. Use practice to form a habit. Provide sentence stems for syntactical support. Examples: — "The reason we selected this answer is _____." — "We agree with _____ because ____."

Options for Showing Mastery

- "Put your finger/pencil on..."
- Use physical signals (thumbs up, pencil down, look at me).
- Display answer with response cards.

TALA

Version 2.0 ©2010 University of Texas System/Texas Education Agency

Feedback

Positive Feedback

- Positive feedback (praise) works better than criticism or punishment.
- Provide three positives for each negative.
- Avoid phony praise.
- Give specific praise.
- Stress the importance of trying hard (effort).

Corrective Feedback

- Students need to know when they have made mistakes.
  - Practicing mistakes is not productive.
- Use errors as an opportunity for teaching.
- Provide feedback in a neutral tone.
- Stress the importance of learning and improving.

(Denton & Hocker, 2006)

Version 2.0 ©2010 University of Texas System/Texas Education Agency 19

Summary

- Understand the components of mature reading and potential sources of reading difficulties.
- Identify instructional practices that foster student engagement through active involvement.
- Understand the need to adapt content area instruction for students with reading difficulties.
- Apply a framework for scaffolding instruction.

TALA

Version 2.0 ©2010 University of Texas System/Texas Education Agency

Reflection Log

The Adaptation Framework

Think about how you might use the information presented in this module to plan instruction and support students' academic literacy needs.

- What seemed particularly useful to you?
- What ideas were new and interesting?
- What confirmed or challenged your previous beliefs?
- What questions do you still have?

TALA

Version 2.0 ©2010 University of Texas System/Texas Education Agency